Topic outline

Welcome to the Scoutlink IRC - Operators team!

This course has been written for those users that are willing to risk their lives for keeping the peace in our channels. 😊
This course serves as a training guide and for future reference. Keep it to hand during the training and when you're going to op on your own for the first couple of times.

Respect the scout/guide law, and most of all: HAVE FUN!

Underneath you will find the news forum. All information regarding this course will be given there and there only. You can ask your questions in the Q-and-A forum below the newsforum.

Sections

- A section consists of pieces of information (named resources). You read these first.
- After each section there is a test.
- When you do well enough at the first test, you will obtain a password for the next test. Only then you can continue with the next lesson.

Test Alpha

Completion

- When you are sure that you've read all resources and done all tests, you send an e-mail to hatt@scoutlink.net containing your full name and username/nickname.
- A trainer will then contact you for an online exam as soon as possible.

Online exam

- A trainer contacts you after your tests have been verified. A list of dates will be send to you.
- Please do exactly as it says in the e-mail, so that the administration is kept simple.
- If you think that you need some extra information, extra help or are eligible of skipping (parts of) the exam, please do contact the trainer within the same ticket.

Certification

- If you've done the tests and the exam a trainer will:
  - Update your profile to indicate your course completion;
  - Mail you and your coordinator with the results;
  - Adding your rights to the test channel, although this might have been done already.
